Preamble

Institutions are hubs for research and teaching initiatives that brings together individuals and organisations from interdisciplinary backgrounds to work in solving researchable issues pertaining to Sustainable Communities, Built Environments, Design and Visual Arts. Different Institutions across the country with respect to their geographical and organisational settings have different strengths, weaknesses, and opportunities for developing their research ecosystems and learning environments. Very often, scholars, and faculty work in silos, within their institutional environments. It is very crucial that each institution shall map their research and scholarly ideas, along with their feasibilities and capacities, which can show a visionary path not only to their PhD students, faculty members, but for the institutions to build their research ecosystem. This three-day workshop is aimed to map interdisciplinary research ideas across PhD scholars, faculty, across different departments/schools within JNAFAU.
